

Total Estimate Sensitivity To Key Variables

The horizontal line represents the study case. A vertical line represents the output variable range between an input variable's 10% likely and 90% likely values. Input variables with long vertical lines have the most effect on the output variable.